President's corner

A Call to Gather

By Maurice D. Wozniak, President of WFSC

It would be nice to see you all at Wiscopex '07, the latest incarnation of the annual stamp show put on especially for members of the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs. I know that's a pipedream, of course. You just don't see hordes of stamp collectors thronging into these shows, even though attendance typically is satisfying and dealers are usually happy with the enthusiasm of visitors.

But I suspect I have a recessive Optimism Gene hidden behind a dominant Realism Gene somewhere in my DNA. If you build it, I think, offer a pleasing array of enticing goodies and promote it properly, they will come. Well, maybe not everybody, but certainly hundreds would not be out of the question.

That's what we have this year.

The Waukesha County Philatelic Society has planned what promises to be an exciting one-day show on Saturday, May 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Hamilton High School, W220-N6151 Town Line Road, Sussex. Full details – and directions – appear elsewhere in this issue.

From morning to evening, the bourse, the exhibits, the extra features and the awards party all have interesting tidbits to attract attendance. Of course, the WFSC will hold its annual business meeting Saturday afternoon. You can learn first-hand at this meeting what committee members and officers do on your behalf.

It's gratifying to read in club newsletters that delegates have been appointed from some far-flung clubs to attend the meeting and report back to the membership. The Federation has many programs in place with volunteers to run them (not the least of which is the newsletter you are reading). As I've mentioned before, we can always use more volunteers.

The WFSC began its 75th anniversary celebration at Wiscopex last year in Rockford, Ill., and we'll bring it to a close at this year's show. It has not been an extravagant celebration. The treasurer's report will show that it was a money-making proposition from the start.

Part of the reason is that the many contributions from individuals and stamp organizations were specifically earmarked to help us celebrate. One of those contributions — a leather motorcycle jacket from Harley-Davidson — will be auctioned off at the awards party after the show. The party will feature pizza, a low-key departure from the usual dinner, which will help pack a full Wiscopex experience into a single day. You'll get a free WFSC mug just for attending the pizza buffet.

You'll find other philatelic treasures at the same auction, as well as raffle items related to stamp collecting at the WFSC table during the day.

Among the dealers at the bourse this year you'll find vest-pocket dealers who will offer stamps and covers for only three or four hours.

In the exhibit area you'll find one-page exhibits along the theme of "It's 1932 Again!" The date refers to the founding of the WFSC, and the idea is to design an exhibit based on an event from the year or a country's issues.

Another feature will be "3-D" exhibits that marry stamps and another hobby, such as model railroading or sports cards.

Seventy-five years is a significant milestone in the life of any organization, but without continued commitment and enthusiasm it is essentially meaningless. I am looking forward to the show, as I do for every Wiscopex, and to renewing acquaintances.

All of us stamp collectors will find the opportunity to share with others and help to ensure that the hobby's future will be bright for the next 75 years.

I hope to see you in Sussex May 5 to take the next step in the journey.

The Party Continues
WISCOPEX '07

Clubs are Trump

By Maurice D. Wozniak, President of WFSC

Here's an easy idea for a program, courtesy of the American Topical Association, Chapter No.5: At the January meeting, members told stories about how they started collecting. To introduce the program, Bob Mather observed that the first month of the year derives its name from the Roman word "janua," meaning "door," which itself derived from the god Janus, who ancient Romans believed opened the doors of heaven at dawn to release daylight and closed them when dusk arrived. "What opened the 'door' of philately for you?" Mather asked.

What others are doing

The February Rockford Stamp Notes, newsletter of the Rockford (Ill.) Stamp Club, featured a color reproduction of the editor's favorite stamp – one of the 32¢ George Halas Football Coaches commemoratives – under a "Go Bears!" headline. We're sure it was just to draw attention to a new feature in which members can list their favorite stamp and tell why it's their favorite. How about the Vince Lombardi issue from the same set?

Another feature in the Rockford newsletter is a "Name That Stamp" challenge, in which clues are given to the identity of a number of United States stamps.

The Open Album newsletter of the NML Stamp Club, Milwaukee, reproduces newspaper cartoons and news tidbits every month. From it, we learn that the U.S. Postal Service's busiest day of the year is typically Dec. 18, and in 2005 the USPS processed 280 million cards and letters on that date.

A bit of sleuthing and interpreting has indicated that the Green Bay Philatelic Society should have celebrated its 75th anniversary in March 2006. But then, a little cake and ice cream is a good idea any time.

West Bend Mutual gave Kettle Moraine Coin and Stamp Club, West Bend, a $250 donation.

The Northwoods Philatelic Society, Iron Mountain, Mich., has enough members who belong to the American Philatelic Society to qualify for free membership in the APS. So the club's free copy of the monthly American Philatelist goes to the Dickinson County Library.

From issues of the Chicago Philatelic Society Bulletin, we learn of significant events in lives of our fellow philatelists to the south. Bernard A. "Bud" Hennig, a frequent attendee at southern Wisconsin shows and a judge at many Wisconsin exhibitions, celebrated his 90th birthday in January. Also, CPS member Cheryl Ganz was named acting chief curator for philately at the Smithsonian's National Postal Museum in Washington, D.C. Ganz was assistant curator for the exhibition, "Rarity Revealed: The Benjamin K. Miller Collection." (Miller was a Milwaukeean.)

Program ideas

A member of the Central Wisconsin Stamp Club, Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids, brought in sample sheets from a UW-Stevens Point Paper Science project to reproduce paper used in Scott albums. Members thought the student-prepared paper was a good match.

Information for "Clubs Are Trump" is gathered from club newsletters. Please send newsletters to Maurice D. Wozniak, 1010 Berlin St., Waupaca WI 54981.

APS chapter contact information

By Wayne L. Youngblood

Although you may know me better as a Wisconsin collector, or as editor of this newsletter, I'm also secretary of the American Philatelic Society.

One of the pleasurable roles I hold as a director is being the chapter contact board member for a number of stamp clubs, including all those connected with the WFSC.

Were you aware that as an APS chapter your club can receive a free subscription to the American Philatelist (if enough members are APS members)? Did you know you can receive sales circuits, slide programs, receive a stamp club idea CD, receive the Chapter Activities newsletter or benefit from a number of other services offered by APS?

If not, please let me help. During the month of May I will attempt to reach each chapter representative in all WFSC member clubs. Do you know who your APS representative is? He or she should have received a special History Channel dvd that can be used as a presentation for your club.

If you need to reach me for any reason, please don't hesitate. My address, telephone and email address appear at the bottom of the page.

One Day Only — Wiscopex 2007: The Party Continues

By MaryAnn Bowman

The Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Club's annual convention and exhibition, Wiscopex 2007, will be held Saturday, May 5, 2007, at Hamilton High School in Sussex, Waukesha County. (See map below for directions.) Show hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. You won't want to miss this event as the 75th anniversary celebration continues.

New exhibiting categories will offer the opportunity to see select items from individual collections that might not otherwise make it into a traditional exhibit. Clubs will have received packets of information containing exhibiting forms and other show information. In addition to the traditional exhibits, Federation members were offered the opportunity to prepare a one-page exhibit to fit the

"It's 1932, Again" theme. Clubs may choose to do this as a project and submit all individual entries at one time.

Visit the 3-D displays created by adults and youth. Adult exhibits offer a combination of philatelic and non-philatelic material to highlight a hobby or other collecting interest, such as rocks and minerals, butterflies, railroading or other hobbies. Adults will be on hand to share their knowledge. Youth exhibits take a more creative approach, with the construction of an object enhanced with postage stamps.

Mary Ann Owen's Badger exhibit will be in the Court of Honor. Mary Ann was the founding member of the Waukesha County Philatelic Society, and active in the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs. [Editor's Note:

Please see related article on Page 4]

Don't miss the donation auction with proceeds to benefit the Federation. Last year, the Harley-Davidson company donated a leather jacket, which will be auctioned off at the show. Other items to be auctioned include a luxurious stamp-themed afghan, and special philatelic items from the estate of Mary Ann Owens and items from other donors. The auction will begin at 11 a.m., with Ellis Bromberg serving as the auctioneer. Raffles held throughout the day will also offer visitors new material to add to their collections and benefit Federation projects.

The Federation's annual meeting will begin at 1 p.m. All clubs are requested to send delegates. A judge's critique will be held at 3 p.m. The Wisconsin Postal History Society will have its annual meeting earlier in the day, starting at 9 a.m. (before the show officially opens).

As of Feb. 28th, dealers participating in the show include RHO Postal History and Stamps, Lake Edge Stamp Service, North Bay Stamps, David Alex, University Avenue Stamps, Yankee Stamps and Charles Shoemaker. Vest pocket dealers were also given the opportunity to participate at reduced table costs. John Romppainen and Bill Birch are two who have agreed to participate.

Lunch will be available on site.

Wiscopex 2007 will conclude with the award ceremony at 5 p.m., followed by an all-you-can eat pizza party. Soft drinks will be served in a special souvenir mug and is included in the $7.50 price.

Perhaps you have noticed that the number "75" and variations of that number have played a large role in the celebration. It is no coincidence! Great thought was given to make this an affordable and fun event for all federation members. Frame fees were $7.50 regardless of how many frames. The pizza party's cost is $7.50. The one-page exhibit is 75¢ (plus 25¢ celebration fee).

This special Harley-Davidson jacket was donated to the WFSC by the Harley-Davidson corporation to benefit the organization's projects. It will be auctioned off during Wiscopex 2007, in Sussex, Wis., on May 5. Jacket model is not included!

As you can see, there is a lot packed into this one-day event. Many new innovations have been added to help rejuvenate our hobby and create new excitement about stamp collecting. Can you give one day of your time to support our hobby by attending the show and/or providing an exhibit?

For further details, contact MaryAnn Bowman, P.O. Box 1451, Waukesha, WI 53187, or visit the Federation website. The url address is: <http://www.WFSCstamps.org>.

Entry forms for exhibiting and reservation forms for the dinner are available for download as PDFs on the Wiscopex page of the Website.

We look forward to seeing you at the show and celebrating with you!

Stamp collecting's e-commerce opportunities

by Steve Kluskens

Did you know your club can conduct e-commerce on the WFSC Website?

Like most trendy words, "e-commerce" used to raise my ire. It's a short-cut to describe buying and selling over the Internet. I remember 10 years ago my brother going on about something called eBay. He jumped on the e-commerce bandwagon pretty early, but at the time I figured he'd grow out of it.

E-commerce is here to stay – and grow. To my surprise, it's pretty big among philatelists. For me, though, the hobby is an escape from the World Wide Web and computers. I get to hold things, stamps whose elegance the Web can't replicate. Nevertheless, every week in my email I get a newsletter from a stamp dealer in the Philippines, and my fellow club members talk more and more about prices on eBay. I suppose, too, that if I'm ever going to find blank pages for that Whitman album, it'll be with a Web search.

The Web has a lot to offer stamp collectors. You can search with a precision that matches the remarkable degree to which we specialize. If you're interested in Wisconsin commemorative covers, just type that in and you're on your way. If you do that, www.wisconsinstamps.com, another moniker for the WFSC website, will come up in that search.

The WFSC has its own page displaying its commemorative covers for sale. Right up at the top I have links to the pages of stamp clubs who are selling their commemorative covers. This way, anyone interested in covers will find – in short order – all that Wisconsin clubs have to offer.

The covers look good on the computer, too. I just scan them in on my old scanner, and post the image on your club's page, with as much information as you give me, and send the covers back to you. Now anyone whose specialty happens to include your cover will know about it with a simple web search. They can drop a check with a stamped, addressed envelope in the mail, and – congratulations – you're on the e-commerce bandwagon!

Of course, if you want take it even further, a Paypal account costs nothing up front and allows you to take payments securely over the Web. I can guide you through setting up an account and put all the right buttons for you on your club's page.

So, if your club has some covers to sell, send them my way. It's a service to your club and a benefit for WFSC members.

I don't think philatelists will be outgrowing e-commerce any time soon.

Steve can be reached at his email address: steve@mediaprodevelopment.com.

Mary Ann Owens Memorial Fund Established

by MaryAnn Bowman

Mary Ann Owens, a former Wisconsinite, founder of the Waukesha County Philatelic Society and active in the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs, was recently inducted into the American Philatelic Society's Hall of Fame. The APS Hall of Fame honors deceased philatelists who have made outstanding contributions to philately.

The Waukesha County Philatelic Society is challenging Wisconsin collectors and stamp clubs to donate a combined total of $750 to a memorial fund. A separate area in the American Philatelic Research Library (APRL) will be designated as the Mary Ann Owens Thematic Reference Collection. The area of the APRL stacks devoted to thematic material with a name plaque dedicated to Mary Ann and listing a few of her major accomplishments will include all thematic material now at APRL and any future thematic publications. The total cost of that project is expected to be $10,000 – with half of that money already raised!

Mary Ann was held in high esteem in this state, and many Wisconsin collectors had a deep affection for her and the countless hours of support she gave to the hobby through helping collectors, mentoring exhibitors and presenting programs. This doesn't include all the work she did on the national and international level to better the hobby.

The Waukesha County Philatelic Society held a donation auction and proceeds will be going to the memorial fund. Other clubs as well as individuals who were "touched" by the generosity of Mary Ann's time and efforts are being asked to consider a donation for this worthy cause.

Please make checks payable to the APRL. They may be brought to Wiscopex or sent to MaryAnn Bowman, Box 1451, Waukesha, WI 53187. Can Wisconsin raise $750 by the end of June?

"Weeping Eisenhower" is not Plate Variety

By Wayne L. Youngblood

The item shown here, dubbed "Weeping Ike," is one of my favorite examples of a plate variety that isn't. Similar varieties are found on several coil issues, including the 8¢ Eisenhower definitive and the 1¢ Jefferson of the Prominent Americans series.

Weeping Eisenhower

As striking as it is, it's neither a plate nor printing flaw, and it wasn't created as any part of the printing or processing phases of stamp production. It was caused by the tension chocks of a post office vending machine.

Pressure pads in these machines grip and hold stamps as they are dispensed. They stabilize the stamps and keep customers from pulling additional stamps out. Over time these pads can pick up ink from stamps and eventually deposit it on stamps being vended. While the variety is interesting and highly collectible, it has no particular value.

Letter to the Editor

To the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs:

I am spearheading a campaign to see a United States commemorative stamp issued for my Grandfather, Robert Cal Hubbard. He was born in Keytesville, Mo., and is the only man in both the Pro Football and Pro Baseball Halls of Fame, along with the Missouri, Pennsylvania and Louisiana Sports Halls of Fame, and the Green Bay Packers Hall of Fame. I feel that no one in sports history deserves this honor more.

I am looking for ways to reach people who would like to support this campaign and write letters of support to the U.S. Postal Service's Citizen's Stamp Advisory Committee in Virginia. The more letters that can be written the better. If you have a place where I could post a request for people to write letters, or if you could provide any suggestions let me know. This would be great recognition for a sports legend. Any help would be appreciated. Thanks in advance.
