More Stamps

By Maurice D. Wozniak, President of WFSC

The United States Postal Service revealed its 2011 commemorative stamp program at Stampshow 2010 in Richmond, Va., this summer and, once again, I don't find any issues with an obvious Wisconsin theme among them.

Here's the best I could do this year: One of the scientists on a four-stamp issue in 2011 is Asa Gray (an East Coast contemporary of Charles Darwin), whose Gray's Manual remains a standard reference work in the field of botany. The official title of his monumental work is Manual of the Botany of the Northern United States from Northeast to Wisconsin and South to Ohio and Pennsylvania, Inclusive.

The connection may be a bit obscure, but it might provide a theme for a stamp show put on by one of the clubs in our Federation.

The search for a Wisconsin connection on stamps is a little exercise I go through every year when the USPS makes its official announcement. I couldn't find a Wisconsin stamp in the 2009 roll-out either, but a few months later we were pleasantly surprised to find a definitive stamp for Mary Lasker, a Watertown native who wielded great power through her bank account and social connections in behind-the-scenes Washington, D.C.

Since no official first-day ceremony was planned by the USPS, the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs helped to plan and put on a first-day-of-sale ceremony in the front yard of her former home in May 2009.

Michigan's Mackinac Bridge or Illinois' Abraham Lincoln was as close as we got to Wisconsin in 2010.

But hope remains. A new regular-issue stamp might bear the image of a deceased Wisconsinite, or perhaps an unannounced commemorative will yet surface.

Meanwhile, we can consider the stamp subjects the Postal Service will produce for our enjoyment in 2011. We stamp collectors have been second-guessing the post office's choice of stamps for more than 100 years and lately, as the USPS has steered its mail trucks down the path of pop culture and political correctness, we have plenty of opportunity to gripe.

For example, I notice that one of the 12 industrial designers is noted for a typewriter design. But the USPS has not seen fit to honor Christopher Latham Sholes, the Wisconsin inventor of the first practical and commercially successful typewriter, which revolutionized office operation as much as Gutenberg revolu-

Wausaupex date change

Wausaupex, originally scheduled for Oct. 11, will now take place Oct. 16 at the Labor Temple, located at Stuart and 3rd Avenues, Wausau. Although the change was made several months ago, the July-August Across the Fence Post listed the incorrect date.

tionized the printing of books.

I notice that we'll have a commemorative stamp for Republican President Ronald Reagan next year, to go with the two that already have been issued. That's more than most of our presidents, including the Democrat John F. Kennedy.

I could go on – and so could you.

But we can continue to have high hopes for 2012. Unless the Postal Service goes out of business by then or changes its plans, that's when we're supposed to finally get our Wisconsin flag as part of the alphabetically correct Flags of Our Nation coil series.

Call for Hall of Fame Nominations

Nominations are now being accepted for the 2011 Wisconsin Philatelic Hall of Fame, which recognizes prominent Wisconsin philatelists for their contributions to the hobby. The deadline for nominations is Dec. 31, 2010.

Qualifications required of nominees are: (1) Contributions of a purely local club nature shall not be the sole reason for selection to the Hall of Fame; and (2) A deceased philatelist may not be nominated or considered for selection until three years after his/her death.

Send your nominations(s), together with a statement identifying the nominee, a short philatelic biography and the reasons why that person should be selected for the Wisconsin Philatelic Hall of Fame to Karen Weigt, Chair, Hall of Fame Committee, 4184 Rose Ct., Middleton, WI 53562-4339 or kweigt@tds.net.

Only WFSC member clubs may submit nominations, and each nomination must be seconded by two other member clubs. The nominating club is responsible for making arrangements with the seconding clubs to provide those seconds. The nomination and seconds should be sent to chairman of the Hall of Fame Committee in one mailing.

Clubs are Trump

By Maurice D. Wozniak, President of WFSC

Some stamp club newsletters include a complete listing of programs for the entire year – not every month, but once at the beginning of the year.

Such a list serves more than one purpose. It's a graphic indication that club officers are looking ahead and trying to provide interesting content at meetings for members. It also serves to remind program presenters and other members of what's expected at each meeting. Members can add the program to their "to do" calendar lists ahead of time. And it allows officers an easy reference when trying to add items to the program or rearrange them if a conflict appears down the road.

Writing down all the programs really isn't all that difficult; it just requires a long-term view and some creativity in tapping the interests and expertise of the members. Liberal use of "Members' Auction" or "Slide Show" or "Show-and-Tell" or some such recurring event helps to reinforce the feature in members' minds.

Part of one or two meetings toward the end of the year might be a brainstorming session at which members can suggest topics they are interesting in hearing – or giving. That makes the program a team effort, taking the entire load off the officers' shoulders and making it more likely that members' interests are addressed.

Program ideas

Confession is good for the soul: The Waukesha County Philatelic Society had a member-participation program on "Lessons Learned the Hard Way" – startling mistakes discovered after you made them. (It's something we all can identify with.) The club also had an "Ask the Experts" program in which members came armed with questions and the hope that "we can all learn from each other."

A postal inspector, one of 10 in Milwaukee, talked about her job at a meeting of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society.

A club member told the story of "American Jewish History Through Postage Stamps" at a meeting of the American Topical Association Chapter 5, Waukesha. At another meeting, Roland Essig, whose exhibit, A Philatelic Study of S&H Green Stamps, won a vermeil award at the Plymouth (Mich.) Show, talked about it.

What others are doing

Correction: Greg Bokelman was voted onto the board of directors of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society in a special election, not as its treasurer, as stated in this column last month.

Jim Stearns, bulletin editor for the Northwoods Philatelic Society, Iron Mountain, Mich., included in the newsletter questions members had asked at a meeting – an unanswered one on whether maxi cards are listed in the Scott catalog and a revelation that some countries issue coil stamps with perforations all around.

Information for "Clubs Are Trump" is gathered from club newsletters. Please send newsletters to Maurice D. Wozniak, 1010 Berlin St., Waupaca WI 54981.

Calling all stamp collectors:

"The Secrets of Stamp Collecting" to take place Oct. 13, 2010.

In celebration of National Stamp Collecting Month, ATA Chapter No. 5 will host an open house at 6:30 p.m.

Learn the basics of stamp collecting, select free stamps for your collection, find the specially marked stamps within the mixture and receive a cash prize. All this will be followed by refreshments.

The group meets in Community Room G110 of Mayfair Mall, 2500 North Mayfair Road, Wauwatosa. The public is invited to attend.

Wiscopex 2011 Planning Continues

Wiscopex 2011, convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs, will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 2-3 at the Stevens Point Holiday Inn, 1001 Amber Ave.

The show is being organized and hosted by the Central Wisconsin Stamp Club of Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids. The club will be celebrating its 40th anniversary next year — a theme of the show.

Serving as show chairman for Wiscopex 2011 is CWSC founding member Laurence Glenzer. Glenzer's email address is: mcdillauto@att.net (it was incorrectly listed in the blue bourse sheet included with last issue). J.D. Manville of Jadeco Stamps is serving as bourse chairman. Manville may be reached at: P.O. Box 845, Stevens Point WI 54481 (715) 498-1111, or by email: jadeco@charter.net. Table reservations are already being taken.

The WFSC annual meeting will be an important part of the show, and each club in the state should appoint a delegate who will vote on matters that come up during the meeting. It is not too early to select your club's delegate!

The announcement of the 2011 WFSC Philatelic Hall of Fame inductee will also be made at the show. Please see the related announcement on Page 1.

Wiscopex is your stamp show! The Stevens Point Holiday Inn and Convention Center is new, clean and easily accessible to all parts of the state. You won't want to miss this major philatelic event. Plan now to attend!

Details for attending, exhibiting and other Wiscopex 2011 activities will continue to be presented in Across the Fence Post as they are finalized.

The Central Stamp Club will be hosting Cenwispex 2010, Nov. 6, at the Plover Village Hall, 2400 Post Rd. Show hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

WFSC member club Christmas ads

A long-standing tradition of member clubs of the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs has been to run special holiday ads. We will continue this tradition in the December issue, with two options for clubs.

Individual ads may be purchased at normal ATFP rates and designed either by the club or the editor and placed in desired locations in the issue.

The second option is to be part of a larger ad with a $10 sponsorship. Either way, all copy needs to be received by the editor prior to Nov. 17.

Information should be sent to: ATFP Christmas Ad, Editor Wayne Youngblood, P.O. Box 111, Scandinavia WI 54977-0111, or emailed to youngblood@tds.net.

Cover Exchange Offer

The Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs will once again sponsor a nationwide cover exchange program. Any stamp club, philatelic organization or individual may participate.

The program is being conducted in conjunction with National Stamp Collecting Month in October. The exchange offer will expire Oct. 31, with returns being made to participants by mid-November.

Participants must submit 10 alike covers, as well as a large business-sized envelope addressed and franked with 61c return postage. (Larger envelopes may require additional postage and must be paid by the submitter.) In exchange, eight different covers will be sent back. The extra covers will be used with the Federation's youth program.

Only unaddressed cacheted covers on No. 6 envelopes bearing either pictorial or first-day cancels from the United States will be accepted. A limit of 20 covers can be submitted. Clubs with leftover show, commemorative and first-day covers can reduce their inventory by exchanging them for different covers that can be used as club auction items, door prizes or gifts.

The cover exchange program coordinator reserves the right to return covers considered unsatisfactory for exchange.

To submit covers, write to the Wisconsin Federation of Stamp Clubs, P.O. Box 1451, Waukesha, WI 53187.

Famous Collectors

From time to time we all wonder about famous collectors; that is, collectors who are famous either because of their collections or because of their links to Pop Culture or world politics.

Most of us know the standard litany of older collectors that includes King Farouk of Egypt, King George V of England, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Prince Ranier III of Monaco, actor Bela Lugosi and others. Similarly, we know of the legendary names Col. Edward Green, John Robey, Philip Ward Jr., Stanley Gibbons, J. Walter Scott and others who helped shape the hobby during earlier times.

In recent years we've become aware that late musicians John Lennon and Freddie Mercury both collected stamps.

There are also more recent names of which we're not necessarily aware. On the world and political stage this listing includes President Nicolas Sarkozy, Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Bush advisor Karl Rove, to name a few.

But did you know that chess master Anatoly Karpov collects several topicals (chess among them), or that Rolling Stones lead guitarist Ronnie Wood collects rare stamps? For that matter, tennis star Maria Sharapova has collected stamps since she was a young girl and uses matches in different countries to gather new stamps for her collection. A major list could be compiled with a bit of research.

Adhesive. In philatelic circles, this term describes any stamp-like item that is affixed to a letter or document to represent payment of postage or duties. Therefore, stamps included in the term “adhesive” can range from the Penny Black to city or local revenue stamps and all categories in between. Postal stationery, such as stamped envelopes, postal cards and revenue stamped paper are not considered adhesives because the stamps are printed on the envelope or card, rather than affixed. Adhesive also, of course, refers to any substance that allows one to affix a stamp. These adhesives can include everything from dextrine gum to polyvinyl alcohol (PVA) and other forms of water-activated adhesives and also includes all forms of pressure-sensitive adhesives.

Advertising cover. An advertising cover is an envelope prepared by a commercial source, such as a retail business or manufacturer, which includes advertising copy or illustrations promoting a product, business or service. Advertising covers can be either very plain or extremely ornate. The most desirable advertising covers are those that are elaborately illustrated (especially those in color), and those that represent some specific industries, such as gun-making, sports or various household products that have captured the fancy of collectors or those that have strong topical appeal.

Color Guide. A printed set of color swatches used by collectors to match stamp colors used to print stamps. Such guides are usually printed on coated paper, with currently available inks. A collector then matches the stamp against the swatches to identify shades. Over the years guides have ranged from simple color swatches printed on paper to paint chips on card to even cinderella-type labels that mimic stamps. Unfortunately, since color is perceptual – and since different inks age differently – there has never been a truly accurate color guide, nor is in most cases, stamps with cut cancels are worth considerably less than those with standard ink cancellations. Cut cancellations are found frequently on various types of revenue stamps.

Dead country. A dead country is a postal administration that no longer releases postage stamps. The reasons for this differ, including invasion, disaster, name change or other governmental changes. The list of dead countries is constantly changing, as political upheavals and restructuring of known or recognized countries, such as Yugoslavia.

Expertize. This is a process whereby collectors submit their stamps, covers or other philatelic items to recognized experts in the field for their opinions regarding genuineness, condition or – more recently – grade. Most bodies that offer expertizing also issue certificates with their opinions. Although most dealers and auction houses accept the opinions of most of these experts, it must always be remembered they are only opinions, not a guarantee. Expertizing may be done either by a recognized individual or by a committee of experts. Most services charge fees for expertizing. It is felt by many that most items with certificates that are more than 25 years old should be resubmitted for expertization. New information or better techniques can render earlier opinions void.

Express Mail. A premium-priced overnight delivery mail service introduced by the USPS to compete with private express delivery firms in 1983, with stamps to prepay the cost in denominations ranging from $8.75 to $18.30. Because these stamps have no special inscriptions limiting their use to this service (and are valid for payment of any other postal service as well), they are technically regarded as U.S. definitives. Non-damaged, used Express Mail stamps are among the most valuable modern-day regular issues.

Herringbone cancel. A herringbone cancellation – named for the appearance, which is similar to the bone structure of the fish, is a type of cancellation that is almost always found as a cut cancel. The combination of the inked cancellation and the pattern of cuts was very effective in preventing both the removal and illegal reuse of stamps (mostly revenues).

SL. Abbreviation for straight line, referring, for example, to a town marking consisting of a straight line.

Slogan cancel. Slogan cancels in the United States are generally regarded as metal die hub cancels that bear some form of informational, advertising, promotional or propaganda message. Some include pictorial elements, but many are text-only. Slogan cancels are also found on the covers of many other countries and can be found as both machine and hand-stamped markings. Slogan cancels tend to be of greater interest than simple cancels because of either their historical nature or topical interest. Because most slogan cancels are used for only a limited period of time, they can be helpful in expertizing some scarce stamp varieties.
